Accidental Electrocution.

Frederic Locke, while at work for the Norway & Paris Street Railway Company, Saturday afternoon, met his death by accidental electrocution. At the time he was working on the new pole at the corner of Beal and Cottage streets, when suddenly he fell from the pole and was suspended by the safety belt.

At first it was thought that he had come in contact with a live wire, and it has also been thought that he had an attack of heart failure.

The pole where he was working had three wires with a voltage of 500, and over head was the house and street current that carried 110. The only way he could have received the shock to cause his death was by coming in contact with two runners from the high voltage wires at the same time.

At the time Harry Spiller was working with Locke and was at the foot of the pole fixing the sodering torch. On hearing Locke's cries he looked up and saw him hanging by the safety belt.

Mr. Spiller and Walter Cullinan quickly brought him to the ground and placed him in Forrest McDaniel's team, but he died before reaching the physician's office. Coroner Wm. J. Wales of South Paris was summoned but considered an inquest unnecessary. The burial certificate attributed death to be due to accidental electrocution.

Mr. Locke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Locke of Norway, and was 36 years, 8 months and 4 days old. He leaves besides his parents, a widow and two children, Allie aged 5 years' and Lena aged 3 years, and a sister, Mrs. Mabel Labossiere.

The funeral was from his late home on Deering street, Monday afternoon, and was attended by Rev. H. L. Nichols, Co. D. N. G. M. of which he was a member did escort duty.

This is the second time sudden death has come into the life of Mrs. Locke. Her first husband was a section hand and was accidentally killed.

Fatally Injured.

Frank Vigue, while working at the Paris Manufacturing Co.'s factory at South Paris, was fatally injured last Friday morning. The iron guide from the four sided planing machine at which he worked, worked loose and inflicted a deep wound in his abdomen. Physicians were summoned, but no hopes for recovery was given, as the blow cut into and lacerated the intestines. In the afternoon he was taken to the Maine General Hospital, where he died that evening.

Frank Vigue was the son of the late Mrs. Nellie Vigue, who died Nov. 9 at the hospital after an operation for appendicitis.

He was 17 years old and was a smart, ambitious boy, and was a great help to his family, endeavoring to support his grandmother, Mrs. John York, and a younger brother and sister. He was of a bright and cheerful disposition and was liked by his fellow workmen. After the death of his mother it was thought best to separate the family, but Frank strongly objected and felt certain that with a little aid from his older brother he could maintain the family, which he successfully did.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from his late home on Cummings Place, and was largely attended. The officiating clergymen were Rev. Robert J. Bruce and Rev. F. L. Cannon. The flowers were many and beautiful. Burial took place at Pine Grove Cemetery.

Basket Ball.

The game of Basket Ball, Friday evening at the Opera House was between the Norway High team and the Gould Academy team. There was a good crowd out and the game was followed by a dance. The Norway team did some fine playing and won with a score of 15 to 10.

Line-up:

Other game of the evening was between the second teams of the same schools and in this, Norway was much too strong for the visitors, and was won with a score of 34 to 6.

Those who played this game were, Norway 2nd, Hall, Bethell, Lasselle, Bartlett and Brooks; Gould Academy, 2nd, Mundt, Inman, Rand, Hammond, Bartlett and Young.

Linen Shower.

On Saturday evening, Jan. 9, about twenty friends gathered at the home of Marion Libby on Lower Main street, to give her a little surprise in the form of a linen shower.

After the company had all been seated upon the sofa and kept 'em there, Miss Edith was told that instead of a peanut hunt the friends had prepared a bundle hunt and every bundle that she could find would belong to her. After a short time when she had found them all, she had to guess the name of the donor which was quite a puzzle. After thanking them all, a social hour was spent in games and music.

Many nice presents of towels, napkins, tablecloths, pillow slips and other linen were found in the bundles.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. At a late hour the friends departed, wishing her a long life and many years of happiness.

CITY HALL AND COUNTY BUILDINGS AT RUMFORD.

A suitable place in which to hold court is needed at Rumford. The County Commissioners admit it, and those who attend court there are outspoken regarding the inadequate quarters.

The question rises:—Does Rumford really need a term of S. J. Court? It thought so and made the Legislature so think. It was not seriously opposed by any one. There were objections when Rumford asked to have the March term carried there. The attorneys opposed it, as this is usually the largest attended and longest term in the year, and a compromise was effected, and their desire for a court was assayed by having the May term, which convenes without the Grand Jury.

From the records you could easily be convinced there was no pressing need of a May term in any part of the County,—however there are three terms assigned, and by agreement, this one is held in Rumford, and is causing the County Commissioners a deal of trouble to properly house it.

They are paying $200 for the rooms of the Business Men's Club for two weeks and a pro rata price per day if needed longer than two weeks. The two hundred is paid if the rooms are occupied only five days, and the floor and the walls must be protected with sail-cloth as the cowhide boots and course clothes of the court attendants will not mar the splendor of paint and the shine of varnish.

Four terms of Probate Court is held at Rumford in the Municipal Court Room which is leased of the Rumford Falls Trust Co. at a rental of $400.00 per year. A store house—called a rum room—is provided for $50.00, hence expense of rent to the County including the May term is $650.00 per year. There are other incidental expenses paid by the County.

These rooms are not perhaps as palatial as some of the Congress street real estate owners desire.

They want a City Building and the County to pay one-half the cost of erecting and maintaining it. Here is an opportunity and they take advantage of it, and ask us to come out and hear about it, and see plans and specifications at the South Paris Court House, Tuesday, Jan. 19th, at 1.30, p. m.

Let there be a good attendance. There are many who feel it would not be wise for the County to go in company with Rumford in this matter. That it would be better for the town to build and own its municipal building, and rent to the County for a reasonable sum such rooms as the County may need.

This could be done without going to the Legislature,—where, as we understand, it is the intention to get permission to allow the Commissioners to build a Court House at Rumford without submitting it to the vote of the people. This is a short cut to obtain a result.

However fair it is to the tax payers we don't say. It's the way booming and prosperous Rumford grasps and uses an opportunity.

Here is a news item showing what the Rumford people are doing:—

A public meeting was held Monday evening at the Business Men's Club, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, the object of the meeting being to examine and discuss plans drawn for a court house and town hall to be built at Rumford jointly by the county of Oxford and the town of Rumford, and to see what action the citizens of Rumford would take in the matter.

Orville J. Gonyea, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was in the chair. Lucian W. Blanchard, the secretary, presented the plans. The proposed building would be of concrete, to accommodate the town officials, the municipal lock-up, a court room of sufficient size to accommodate the supreme judicial court with the necessary jury rooms, etc.

The second floor would be a town hall with a seating capacity of 1000, a stage, and property rooms for theatres and plays and such like entertainments. The proposed building would be 60x120 feet.

Following the viewing of the plans, remarks were made by Judge Matthew McCarty, Dr. A. E. Shawwood, E. T. Parker, and others. An expression of those present was asked for in regard to the proposed building, which resulted in a unanimous endorsement.

The following committee was appointed to present the matter to the legislature now in session at Augusta:—Judge McCarty, R. T. Parker, A. E. Stearns, F. O. Eaton, E. W. Howe, Stanley Bissell, O. J. Gonyea, L. W. Blanchard and J. H. Martin.

E. A. Morrison while cutting wood for W. K. Clifford one day last week cut his foot badly, the ax going half way through his foot.

Mrs. Robinson of St. George is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Burr F. Jones.

Mrs. Walter L. Gray entertained the Seneca club, Monday evening. The guests of the evening were Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. Stanley Wheeler, Carrie Gray and Mrs. Roy E. Cole of Canton, Mass., honorary members.

Herbert Hilton, who for a long time has been at Hebron Sanatorium, is reported to be much improved in health. Mrs. Hilton's condition remains about the same. She is at 12 Walker street, Portland.

A union service was held at the Baptist church Sunday. The service was by Rev. A. T. McWhorter of the Congregational church. At 6 o'clock a union service of all the young people's societies of the churches was held.

Mrs. C. L. Buck, who went to the Sisters' hospital in Lewiston last week, was operated on Saturday, and is reported as getting along well.

At the meeting of Mt. Meia Building Association which was held Thursday afternoon, Alton C. Wheeler was re-elected secretary and treasurer, and N. D. Bishler, H. L. Swan and C. H. Howard, directors. The association has had a prosperous year.

The following officers were installed by Past Pres. Sister Ellen M. Curtis, for Wm. K. Kimball Circle:

Sec.—Kate Stray.
Treas.—Eva Ordway.
Chap.—Rosa Monk.
Con.—Lupina March.
Ass. Con.—E. Record.

A NORWAY GIRL.

Written Especially for the Norway Advertiser.

Suitable for Music.

Again I hear the pines of Norway singing.
Along the village street my feet are springing.
And I'm again a little Norway girl.
Long years have flown, full many a golden summer,
Since there the village boys and girls were Where sweet Pennessewassees' waters
And staid the dear old homestead I can not forget.
Again I see my mother in the doorway,
Again behold my father with his silver
Pictures of memory hanging o'er my pathway.
Now all is changed since days that I were there.
But walking down the village street this morning,
The wind tossed back, just as of yore,
And I was glad in all of womanhood's adornings.
To think I was a little Norway girl.
The Rose of Puna. It was on it on my bosom,
And in life's role have not forgot my lines,
But of the sighs for buttercups in bloom.
To be a child again by Norway's pines.
Sweet home, dear home! where gray millstone, no, you cannot know, sure half my
But you will not forget your Norway girl.

NORWAY, MAINE

NORTH HARTFORD.

Mrs. Lucy Young, One of the Oldest Ladies in Hartford.
By the death of Mrs. Lucy Young, Hartford loses an esteemed citizen and nearly one of its oldest inhabitants. Mrs. Young passed away at her home where she had lived for more than sixty years, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the advanced age of 89 years, 8 months and 18 days, her death being due to a shock about two weeks previous to her burial.

Mrs. Young was born on the farm now owned by Howard Curtis on April 20, 1825, the daughter of Ephraim and Sally Russell. She was married to Joshua Young, who passed away several years ago. Of this union three children were born:—Ella, wife of Oscar Newall of Sumner, Ellen, wife of Henry Folland, and also resides in Sumner; Moses, who married Hattie Young of Sumner, and has always lived on the home farm, and with his wife have cared for the mother in her declining years.

She was a kind neighbor and always willing to help in both sickness or in death as long as her age permitted. She was a very well woman all her life, not having much of any sickness. She is mourned by her children, grandchildren, and several great-grandchildren who were a comfort for her. When the summons came she was ready to pass over and had been for some years.

The last sad rites were performed by Rev. Mr. Atwood at the home, Sunday at 11 a. m. The floral offerings were beautiful. Interment was in the Young cemetery.

Earl Farnam, who was operated on at home, is getting along nicely. There are several having their apples packed in this vicinity. They are getting $2.00 a barrel for the Baldwins.

Percy Wilson and wife visited Mrs. Wilson's aunt, Ada Libby, over Sunday. Several are getting their ice which is 22 inches thick.

Soldiering.

To work long hours, sometimes for days and nights, with trenching tools—the work of the ditch digger;
To load and unload and carry large packs of supplies—the work of a stevedore;
To serve in the mess with towel and troughs of water—the work of a dishwasher;

To cut down forests and hew large trees with adz and ax—the work of a lumber-jack;
To feed and curry and tend one's horses, or some one else's horses—the work of a hostler;

To touch the torch to peasants' crops and haystacks and cottages—the work of a vandal;
To stand up before one man or two men whom he has never met before, and shoot them to death—the work of an executioner;

To run off pigs and cattle belonging to others, and prepare their flesh for the kettle—the work of a butcher;
To march for hours and hours in sun or rain, until his movements become mechanical, the mind numbed, and the whole matter less than a nightmare—the work of a frankenstein;

To be flung into a combat where and with whom he cannot tell.
And then to have the trench covered over him, or to be laid in the ditch and leave the mud piled over him, or to be tied up with three others ("bodies are tied in bundles of four to facilitate handling").

That is the work of a soldier.
That is the "romance" of soldiering.

"The Road to Happiness."

Quaint sayings of William in his big new play success of title in which that famous "Man from Home" will be seen for the last time this afternoon and tonight.

You can't fight trouble with tears; tears help trouble just the way water helps flowers.
Courage—confidence in the truth—this makes the road to happiness.
A smiling face cures lumbago.
You can't control a woman's heart with a sledge hammer.

Laughter on the lips makes sunshine in the heart.
Let's take it easy now. If we start slow, we won't be so long when we get where we're going.
Let 'em roast. While they're roasting, me they're lettin' somebody else cool off.

What difference does it make who has all the money, so long as everybody's happy? Cheerfulness is better than money. You might lose your money, but you can keep up hope.

You know one postmaster carried a letter of mine around with him for two weeks once. He believes that what you don't know won't worry you.
If a girl is bad you don't have to tell people. They'll find it out before the girl does. If a load of logs on a bob sled runs a silver in their finger, old Ben Hardcastle will accuse him of stealing a board walk.

Old Father Time is the only sure-fire device in the world.
Let it rain; it'll make the ducks and the flowers happy.
Squeeze your mind and press on your heart and see what your tongue will do. Seats now selling for both performances.

Get Busy.
"Get out and sell some goods. Plant some more trees, do more work than you planned. Talk cheerful talk and you'll find this country of ours a pretty good place after all."

To support the secretary's hopeful views are the figures gathered by his department as to American foreign commerce since the outbreak of the great war. Since August, when the monthly trade balance of the nation showed a deficit of nearly $20,000,000 through excess of imports over exports, the situation has been completely changed. For December alone it is estimated that the export excess will reach $100,000,000 or more, with one exception, the highest mark of the last two years.

The floating debt of the United States to foreign countries has been paid in goods. Secretary Redfield has declared, and he looks now to the near approach of a day when the United States will take her place as a creditor nation, no longer a debtor.

Since the war also, 105 foreign built ships with a gross tonnage of 878,840 have come under the American flag. Additions to this fleet are being made every week.

Oxford County men of influence at home and in every part of the country are always able and willing to "lift their pound."

Here are some helpful ideas on how a middle-aged woman should dress. Don't think that, just because you have grown up daughters, it is your duty to always wear a drumpy black dress. You wear a better color or make will suit you much better, for they help to take down the color. If you are colorless and sallow, never wear a dull dress and hat without a touch of brightness somewhere. A red rose under the brim of your hat, a scarlet sunshade or a little flame colored bow on your dress will do wonders for you.

Don't wear a sport's shirt with a turn-over collar and sailor knot tie. These things are very nice for girls, but they don't suit you. If you want a shirt, have one that looks down the back and is finished by a neckband and a little muslin shirt.

Maurice and Carroll Cummings were guests at Dudley Cottage, recently. Among our smart old ladies is Mrs. Nellie Dudley, who is seventy-five years of age. During the absence of her nephew for several weeks she has cared for her two horses, a cow and hens, doing the milking herself.

Editor of the Advertiser. Dear Sir:—Speaking in the first person singular, I consider the local papers of Oxford County among the most interesting and entertaining productions of the American Press.

"Be it weakness" (says the venerated Cowper) it deserves some notice. We love the play-places of our early days; The scene is touching and the story is true. That feels at the sight and feels at none."

The blessed associations of childhood and youth, the earliest memories of departed years, the hallowed names which we first heard from the lips of now long lamented kindred, friends and neighbors, all these so vividly recalled from week to week in periodicals which were fire-side companions of our happier days, contribute to the enjoyment of advanced age as hardly any other intellectual recreation can.

I have been particularly pleased while perusing an article in your paper of Dec. 25, under the heading of "Oxford County men, who have become noted," which article I would have had extended indefinitely, and embellished with many other names once conspicuous in the annals of the county, and the State, if not the Nation at large.

Among these I would have been glad to find that of my former and honored teacher, Nathaniel T. True, the scene and theatre of whose life-long celebrity and usefulness, though not the place of his birth, was in Oxford County.

Also I would enjoy finding in the same roll of honor, various others whom I have personally known, as for instance, the heroic Col. Clark S. Edwards of the 5th Maine Regiment; Capt. Adalbert B. Twitchell of the 7th Me. Battery; Judge Enoch Foster of the Supreme Court; Dr. John Grover of Bethel, and his four distinguished sons, Tallyrand, Abernathy, Cuvier and Lafayette, a family aptly comparable to that of the Washburns of Livermore on the same historic stream, and these, too, were natives of Oxford County, the Livermore brothers had attained to manhood and political eminence.

The list of Oxford County's notables might be extended to much greater length than my limited knowledge of the facts would suffice for, and I would here suggest the task for someone better qualified than

Yours delighting in reminiscences of "the days that are no more."

The blessed associations of childhood and youth, the earliest memories of departed years, the hallowed names which we first heard from the lips of now long lamented kindred, friends and neighbors, all these so vividly recalled from week to week in periodicals which were fire-side companions of our happier days, contribute to the enjoyment of advanced age as hardly any other intellectual recreation can.

I have been particularly pleased while perusing an article in your paper of Dec. 25, under the heading of "Oxford County men, who have become noted," which article I would have had extended indefinitely, and embellished with many other names once conspicuous in the annals of the county, and the State, if not the Nation at large.

Among these I would have been glad to find that of my former and honored teacher, Nathaniel T. True, the scene and theatre of whose life-long celebrity and usefulness, though not the place of his birth, was in Oxford County.

Also I would enjoy finding in the same roll of honor, various others whom I have personally known, as for instance, the heroic Col. Clark S. Edwards of the 5th Maine Regiment; Capt. Adalbert B. Twitchell of the 7th Me. Battery; Judge Enoch Foster of the Supreme Court; Dr. John Grover of Bethel, and his four distinguished sons, Tallyrand, Abernathy, Cuvier and Lafayette, a family aptly comparable to that of the Washburns of Livermore on the same historic stream, and these, too, were natives of Oxford County, the Livermore brothers had attained to manhood and political eminence.

The list of Oxford County's notables might be extended to much greater length than my limited knowledge of the facts would suffice for, and I would here suggest the task for someone better qualified than

EVERYBODY NEEDS PURE, RICH BLOOD

Pure blood enables the stomach, liver and other digestive organs to do their work properly. Without it they are sluggish, there is loss of appetite, sometimes faintness, a deranged state of the intestines, and, in general, all the symptoms of dyspepsia.

Pure blood is required by every organ of the body for the proper performance of its functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood, and this is why it is so successful in the treatment of so many diseases and ailments. Its acts directly on the blood, ridding it of scrofulous and other humors. It is a peculiar combination of blood-purifying, nerve-toning, strength-giving substances. Get it today.

How Moth Balls Save Squash Vines.

For several years I have waged a losing fight with long black squash beetle, and the slender striped harlequin bug, and had lost all my pumpkins and squash vines, says a correspondent in Farm and Fireside, writing on how moth balls saved his squash vines. When I crumpled up a dry leaf, myriads of little demons would scatter in all directions.

Last year I had a good stand of squash vines planted in fertilized soil among the potatoes. One day a visitor and myself went all over the vines, turning up every leaf and destroying both bugs and eggs. Dropping off to play "possum" on the ground did not help them. We made a clean sweep of the bugs, and I forgot how many hundreds were killed that day.

Then I got a bag of moth balls and laid them at close intervals along each vine under the thickest leaves and beside each young squash. A heavy rain washed some away, but they were replaced.

In a day or so I saw and killed a few stray beetles, but those squash and pumpkins grew very large, and I saw no more beetles. Last fall I hauled home all one horse could pull on the sled from a comparatively few vines and I believe that it was the moth balls that saved them. I shall try the same again.

HOW TO EARN MONEY.

A lady has made a national reputation putting up and selling "pin-money pickles." She began a few years ago in a very modest way, but now the products are so popular that they can be found nearly everywhere in the United States. Another woman has built up a business making chowchow, for which she gets $3 a gallon.

These are only samples of what hundreds of young women have done to earn pin money by putting up canned goods at home. People are continually demanding a better quality of canned goods and are willing to pay a better price for them.

The farmer's daughter who desires to earn pin money may avail herself of the instructions in putting up canned goods and learn to put up canned goods that she may sell at a profit. Those who are interested in such a project may obtain instructions on canning in Farmers' Bulletin 521 of the United States Department of Agriculture, which will be sent free of charge to the applicant.

The bulletin, while encouraging the young woman in her efforts to make a business proposition of putting up fruits and vegetables, cautions against over-enthusiasm. It advises that the beginner experiment with a few cans before going too heavily into the project. If the first cans keep well she may be encouraged to proceed. If she meets with a few failures, perhaps she has overlooked some important detail outlined in the department's bulletin. It is only through failures that one gets good experience, and with a little practice and care in following the instructions, she will be able to put up a satisfactory can of fruit or vegetable.

When a young woman has succeeded in putting up a product satisfactory for home use, she may well look around for a market outside the home. The girl who starts out with confidence in herself will be more likely to find a good market than one who is diffident.

The girl with experience in canning knows the products with which she has the most success, and should endeavor to sell only those in which she excels. It is always best to specialize as work up a reputation for some particular kind of goods, as did the women already mentioned.

One girl may make a feature of pickles, another may find her best product in pickles, while another may put up a specially attractive can of peppers, cauliflower, peaches, apples, or tomatoes.

People of means are most likely to want "home canned" products, and these are the ones to sell. Many housewives living in the cities who leave home for the country during the summer months will gladly give the farmer's goods at a discount to last them all winter. It is best to take orders ahead as far as possible.

The young woman who starts out to sell her products will, of course, dress neatly and take samples of her products put up in an attractive form. Glass jars will show products much better than tin, but if tins are found to be less expensive they may be used for all except the show products.

The managers of the best hotels and restaurants in the neighborhood the stewards of social clubs in the cities, the managers of railroad dining cars, and the proprietors of the girl who does canning at home. These products are likely to show individual care and to be prepared neatly of good materials, and on the shelves of the retail store are likely to attract attention from the best customers.

If a young woman knows by experience that her products are first class, she need not hesitate to put a good price on them. Home-canned goods, canned by experienced people, are worth more than ordinary goods, and one need not compete rarely found upon bargain counters.

Even if the first samples of home canning are not such as may be readily sold, they may be used at home and from her experience the farmer's daughter may do better the following season. When she actually succeeds in getting something better than the ordinary she should be able to sell it. She may well ask her friends to recommend her to good trade.

The young woman sincerely determined to make a success of canning as a business proposition with perseverance and care in following instructions should be sure of some measures of success.

WOMEN AND MUSIC.

They Far Outnumber Men at the Conservatories.

All writers and thinkers are agreed on the proposition that the mental organization of women differs materially from that of the opposite sex. There are abnormal women, women in whose constitution the peculiar feminine instincts and attributes seem to be wholly wanting, just as there are emaculated men, men whose whole mental caliber is essentially womanly. These, however, are the exceptions that prove the rule, and in artistic matters there is just as strongly marked a difference between the sexes as there is between their physical natures.

This difference is markedly prominent in the domain of music. The highest gift of God to our race—the genius for creation—seems to have been entirely denied to women, in all the region of music. In the sister arts this is not the case.

Painting ranks among its brightest ornaments many women who have attained world-wide celebrity. In the sculptor's studio we frequently find women, and these too have wrested victory from the side of their male rivals—their compeers and co-equals. Literature in all its phases, through fiction, philosophy, morals and religion, up to its culmination in its dearest—women who are universally acknowledged to be bright stars in the intellectual firmament; but the moment we turn from these arts to the domain of music, the female page is a very blank. Not a single woman in any country or any age, has attained even to mediocrity as a composer. No great musical works have ever been written by women. The very utmost that has been attempted by the gentler sex is the production of simple ballads, like those by music and variations, and even these bear no marks of genius.

Pometham spark that is needed to vivify a composition and cause it to burn its way deep into the heart of the hearer.

Another point wherein the difference between the sexes is strikingly apparent is this: Fully three-fourths, if not a still larger portion of all the students of music in the country, are females. The rolls of pupils in all the conservatories, and the reports from private teachers, all show the same result, viz., that the fair sex largely out-numbers the masculine. With this enormous disproportion in their favor, we would expect to find a corresponding number of successful musicians—women who rise above the average of pianists. Yet instead of this result we find precisely the opposite one. Good average female pianists are rare in proportion to the number of the opposite sex, while we advance to the higher regions of executive ability the disproportion increases enormously, and when at last we find ourselves scanning the roll of those who have won a universal reputation as pianists of the very front rank, the names of but two women appear—Madame Clara Schumann and Madame Anabella Goddard.

Why this is so, we do not pretend to understand. Why women do not—we do not say cannot—distinguish themselves at least as much in proportion to the musical field as they have in painting, poetry, sculpture and kindred artistic pursuits, is a problem we leave for others to solve.

That this result is due to some direct cause is axiomatic. What is it? Will some one answer to the pregnant question?

We are firm believers in the doctrine of the universal adaptability of women to every walk in life, every occupation, nor would we deny to them a single field for writing over the entrance, "Thus far shalt thou go, and no farther."

We believe that in the future, as in the past, the galaxy of stars will be the brighter for the recognized presence of woman; but for all this faith in the past, present and future of woman, there is a stubborn array of facts above reason, which needs some rational explanation. Who will give it?

If Mothers Only Knew

How frequently children suffer from worms they would take more precaution against this common ailment of childhood. Grown folks also have worms very frequently. Signs of worms are: Deranged stomach, furred tongue, belching, variable appetite, increased thirst, acid or heavy breath, nausea, Trade Mark bowel action, variable leaden tint, bluish rings around eyes, itching of nostrils, languor, irritability, disturbed sleep, grinding of teeth, irregularity of pulse. Over 30 years ago my father discovered the formula of Dr. Frank Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. This remedy has a world-wide reputation as the one safe and reliable remedy for worms and stomach disorders. At dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00. Advice free. Write me.

A Very Bad Cough.

Mrs. S. J. Kountz, 1015 Scovel St., Nashville, Tenn., writes: "I have had a very bad cough nearly all my life. I have taken almost every kind of cough medicine, but none did me much good. I would have spells of coughing that I thought I would cough myself to death. I took Peruna, and last winter and this winter I have had no cough and I know that Peruna cured me."

"I was always thin and delicate, very easy to catch cold, but I am well now and enjoying good health. I feel that I owe it all to Peruna."

WEST STONEHAM.

Maud McAllister and son Stillman returned home, last Sunday from East Stoneham, where she has been caring for her daughter, Mrs. Richards.

This community was saddened, last week hearing of the death of Sylvester Adams, who passed away, last week Monday, at the home of his son, Percy Adams, of Albany. He was born in this town and was almost a lifelong resident here. He was a very worthy citizen and will be missed by all. He was the oldest man in town being well along in his 85th year.

Four Finlanders from West Paris are cutting timber in the woods for Lyman Chute.

Mrs. Nettie Chute made her husband, Josiah Chute, a short visit, Sunday, at Northeast Lovell, where he is caring for Freeman Andrews.

A nice January thaw and a good rain last Wednesday night and Thursday of last week.

CONSUMPTION TAKES
350 PEOPLE DAILY

Over 350 people succumb to consumption every day in the United States.
Science proves that the germs only thrive when the system is weakened from colds or sickness, overwork, confining duties when general weakness exists.
The best physicians point out that during changing seasons the blood should be made rich and pure and active by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals. The cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion warms the body by enriching the blood; it peculiarly strengthens the lungs and throat, while it upholds the resistive forces of the body to avoid colds and prevent consumption.
If you work indoors, tire easily, feel languid or nervous, Scott's Emulsion is the most strengthening food-medicine known.
It is totally free from alcohol or any stupefying drug. Avoid substitutes.

Sprains, Bruises
Stiff Muscles

Sloan's Liniment will save hours of suffering. For bruises or sprain it gives instant relief.
It arrests inflammation and thus prevents more serious troubles developing. No need to rub it in. It acts at once, instantly relieving the pain, however severe it may be.
Here's Proof
Charles Johnson, P. O. Box 105, Lawson's Station, N. Y., writes: "I sprained my ankle and dislocated my left hip by falling out of a third story window six months ago. I went on crutches for four months then I started to use some of your Liniment, according to your directions, and I must say that it is helping me wonderfully. I threw my crutches away. Only used two bottles of your Liniment and now I am walking quite well with one cane. I never will be without Sloan's Liniment."

Recollections of Early Settlers of Greenwood

By PROF. A. E. VERRILL of Yale University
Old Mills; Robbins Family; Aquatic Sports.

A family named Robbins conducted the grist mill and the new shingle mill, which Oliver Robbins built. He also remained and enlarged the gristmill pond, a short distance down the stream,
where the boys used to go in swimming.
There were several of the Robbins boys, several were grown up and some were babies, and one girl named Ruth, about my age. They could all swim well, even the only three or four years old, and the girl also. They lived in the upper story of the gristmill, and later in the shingle-mill. The oldest son was Lucius, who was also a noted fiddler. Other sons were George, Oliver and Amasa, and it is I remember that I have forgotten.
Benjamin Verrill, an older brother of my father, born 1804, married Beulah Hutcheon. He lived early in Greenwood City, in the same double house with my father. The house they built in company.
It was nearest the lake on the west side of the street and had a high stone retaining wall on the south and west sides of the lot, the remains of which can still be seen. He moved early to Minot, where he reared a large family. Part of his children were born in Greenwood. Two of his sons died in the army, during the Civil War.

Benjamin Verrill had five sons and five daughters. Two daughters, born May 31, 1846, were twins that were almost identical in form and features when young.
They were named Lucy E. and Georgia A.
Two sons, George W. and Mark A., died in the army in the Civil War. The former at Spotsylvania, Va., May 18, 1864.
Mark A. at Leesville, Va., Jan. 27, 1862.

His children, in their order, are as follows: Geo. W., born 1832; Eunice, born Jan. 1835, now living, married first,
Stevens, second, Thurlovy and had children; Phil V., born 1839; John W.,
born 1841; Mark A., born 1843; Lucy
E., born 1846; Georgia A., born 1846;
Vesley, born 1836, died in infancy;
Lydia, born 1852, now living.

Benjamin Verrill was an able and well educated man, and an excellent school teacher. He also held public offices.
My father's family has been given pretty fully in a previous article. I may add here that he lived at different times in three separate houses that I can remember, but mostly in the double house at first owned by him and Benjamin jointly. The last place, in 1852, was the old Hilborn Inn. The first house that he lived in, after marriage, was near the house of Rev'd Edward Whittle, but it burned a few months later and the young couple lost all their effects in the fire, so that they went to live with grandfather Verrill, on Patch Mountain, until their new house could be built.

I think he had a store at the village between 1835 and 1840, but don't know the date. From about 1845 to 1850, he had the store on the west side of the street, south of the Noyes Tavern; in 1851-2 he was in the grocery business at Locke's Mills. In 1853 he moved to Norway Village. At first he had the corner store opposite the Elm House, later he occupied the store that is now Atherton's
Furniture Store, until he died in 1862.

One year, I think it was 1844, he lived in North Norway, on the Chas. Penick place. While there I met with a bad accident, falling down the cellar stairs.

HUB-MARK
RUBBERS

FOR MY LADY'S FEET
Sir Walter Raleigh gallantly threw down his cloak on the wet earth that the Queen might pass with her dainty slippers.
For the past sixty years the manufacturers of Hub-Mark rubber footwear have served the women of the land even more effectively.
A courtier's cloak for a carpet is good as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough.
Hub-Mark rubbers have done such gallant service for years that the service is common link. They furnish the one perfect weather-proof carpet wherever you go. Hub-Mark rubbers for men, women, boys or girls are standard both in quality of material and excellence of workmanship.

The first cost of Hub-Mark rubbers is no more than that of other first quality goods and they wear much longer. Figure it out and then say

BETHEL.

First Case at Supreme Judicial Court.
The first case to come before the Supreme Judicial Court which convened in Portland, Tuesday, was that of Lillian B. Dismore vs. Guy L. Thurston, a heart-balm case in which Miss Thurston, a well-known Portland nurse, is seeking $25,000 in a breach of promise suit against Mr. Thurston.

William H. Culliver of the Portland bar is represented by McGillicuddy & Morey of Lewiston and H. H. Hastings of Auburn.

Miss Dismore alleges that she became engaged to Mr. Thurston; and that on Aug. 24th, he presented her with the betrothal ring and asked her to set the date for the wedding. The date agreed upon, she alleges, was Nov. 1, 1914, and she made preparations to wait to great expense that the wedding might take place on that date.

Sept. 3, she asserts, Mr. Thurston cancelled his engagement and told her that he was to marry Bessie Burns.

Grange Officers Installed.
Last Saturday the Grange had an all-day meeting. The forenoon was spent transacting the necessary business and holding its annual corporation meeting. In the afternoon the officers were installed in an able manner by Leon Brooks of South Paris. His certainly knows the work and has it all in his head too. He was assisted by Stetson Tuell and his daughter, and Ezekiel L. Porter, and are as follows:

M. Chas. S. Dudley.
O. Adams. E. Tuell.
L. Mrs. Emily Fields.

Treas.—J. H. Ellingwood.
Sec.—F. L. Wyman.
Clerk.—Mrs. Grace Stevens.
Pomona.—Mrs. Cora Stevens.
Flora.—Mrs. Cora Stevens.
L. A. S.—Madeline Peabody.

After installation there was a short program of entertainment, a solo by Mr. Grover; a few remarks by the installing officer, and two old familiar songs. Old folks at home, and, When we meet again. About 50 were present and a good meeting enjoyed.

Last week Tuesday evening, Onward Rebekah Lodge had their officers installed by District Deputy Pres. Mabel E. Ricker and D. G. M. Mrs. Della R. Penley and are as follows:

Mrs. Marjorie Ellingwood.
V. G.—Mrs. Phila Davis Mayhew.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ryder of Yarmouth are visiting at Frank Parnum's.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Briggs are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Jan. 8.

Lyman Rowe went to the C. M. G. hospital last week for treatment for his injured hand.

Mabel E. Ricker, D. D. Pres., and Mrs. Della R. Penley, D. G. M., installed the officers of the Sunset Rebekah lodge at Bethel last week Monday.

Rev. D. A. Ball attended the funeral of Mr. Paine at Greenwood last Thursday.

Rev. C. H. Young assisted by Rev. L. W. Raymond attended the funeral of Mrs. America Andrews at North Paris, Sunday.

Rev. Seth Benson went to Mrs. Andrews' funeral last Sunday at North Paris and suffered a bad heart spell immediately after. He was unconscious in his chair. They put him upon the couch and it was several minutes before he could be brought to consciousness. A physician was there in a very short time and stayed with him all night. Dr. Yates went over the next afternoon and stayed all that night. He attended slowly and hopes to come home soon.

The Suffragette Convention was very successfully played last week Wednesday evening. The parts were very well taken. The greater part of the cast had never taken a stage part before and they did remarkably well.

Mrs. Bubber makes one of the best convention leaders and those who had the comic acting brought down the house. The two love songs included in the play by Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Stevens were all right. The jokes and local hits were well applauded, and there was one joke in the opening program that was not intended that received a good applause.

The opening program consisted of a piano solo by Mrs. Grover; vocal solos by Mr. Grover and Mrs. Wood, and a vast amount of accumulated should be so strict and that the powers of the members of the corporation to elect their successors should be strictly limited.

Yet the object of the Foundation, as stated in the bill introduced by Senator Gallinger, was "to promote the well-being and to advance the civilization of the people of the United States and its territories and possessions and of foreign lands in the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge; in the prevention and relief of suffering; and in the promotion of any or all elements of human progress."

Not discouraged by the rebuff from congress, Mr. Rockefeller transferred his request to the New York legislature, which in 1913 authorized the incorporation of the Foundation.

His Version.
The small boy came home from Sunday school looking disheveled and dusty that the mother had grave suspicions concerning his having been at Sunday school at all. He explained his disarray by the fact that he had stopped at a neighbor's house to see some young puppies and had climbed into a stable in order to be able to find them.

"What was the Golden Text?" inquired the parent.
"Don't worry. You'll get the blanket," was the answer.

"There's nothing to be that in the Bible," declared the mother.
"Yes, there is. I guess I know the Golden Text. Our class said it over and over."

To settle her doubts the mother telephoned to the boy's teacher.
"Harry tells me that the Golden Text today was, 'Don't worry. You'll get the blanket.' What does he mean?"

With a peal of laughter the teacher explained the boy's statement, giving the text correctly: "Fear not, the Comforter shall come unto you."

Luke McLuke Says.
Hush money does more talking than any other kind.

When you see an overdressed woman escorting a man who looks like a door mat, you know who is boss in that house. A girl can put in ten years acquiring culture, but that won't keep her from snoring when she is asleep.

The man who beats his wife isn't a bit worse than the man who robs his family by spending his money on his friends.

The old-fashioned man who used to public his wife was a son of a son who owns a motor boat named "Fish-kabibble."

It is funny what a difference a few years make. The girl who used to let you chew her "wax" in a dish while she took a walk at your "all day sucker" now has a daughter who carries her individual drinking cup so she won't get any germs in her mouth.

Sometimes a woman is so hard up for something to crow about that she will brag about the number of deaths in her family.

MAINE FARMING IMPROVING.

It is noticeable that newspapers in the past few years have had considerably less to say about abandoned farms of Maine than they once did. As a matter of fact we do not believe Maine farmers are doing much farm abandoning in these days. It is true that some farmers have had a way of selling their farm land and trying their luck in some other section of the State or of New England. But if the property they deserted was in any way desirable it did not, as a rule, long go begging for an occupant. Frankly, we think the automobile is doing a great deal toward making the farmer and the farmers' families better contented with their lot.

The principle objection to farm life has always been its loneliness, its isolation from centers of social and business activity. But for the past few years road work has gone on constantly, and our highways are being improved at a very rapid rate. Each year finds a larger number of automobile visitors to the remote sections. These tourists often stay at the picturesque homes for a few weeks, thus relieving the monotony of farm life to the farmer and his family. Not infrequently these visitors lead to the purchase of some kind of an inexpensive car by the farmer, and that means a valuable cutting down of distances. A ten mile drive to a county seat to pay a visit to a neighbor was quite an undertaking at the end of a day's work for the farmer or his people. With an automobile in the stable, however, it is nothing but a pleasant diversion, a fitting reward for the day's hard labor.

New England farm soil at one time was pretty well run out, but here in Maine anyway we are now feeling the influence of the various agricultural colleges and such organizations as the State Board of Agriculture. Through the judicious use of proper fertilizers and through more intelligent cultivation the impoverished lands have been enriched and in many localities Maine farming soil is as good as it is in the West. Little by little the Maine farmer is learning the necessity of an adequate working capital with which to purchase modern machinery, and this accounts in a great measure for the high standard of farming efficiency now noticed in the rural districts.

What the Rockefeller Foundation Is.

How many people is this country know that one man has given one hundred million dollars of his private fortune "to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world?" Had it not been that the machinery of this vast beneficence was in existence it would have been impossible to give instant relief to millions of Belgians said to be on the verge of starvation as the result of the war.

A relief ship, provisional with 40,000 tons of supplies gotten together in a few days under high pressure, was sent out by the Rockefeller Foundation at a time when less than a third of the world's foodstuffs stood between 7,000,000 Belgians and actual starvation.

Never before in the history of philanthropy has so great a need been met so quickly and efficiently. It would have been difficult for any individual, however large his means or generous his impulses, to set in motion so promptly measures for relief. Happily the Rockefeller Foundation, broadly conceived in its purposes, stood prepared to meet just such emergencies.

It is timely to remind the public that no debt of gratitude is owed to the National congress that the Foundation is in existence today. Under the leadership of demagogues, congress in 1910, refused to let the Foundation be established.

There must be something sinister in the proposal of any man to give away a larger part of his fortune, that there must be some dark ulterior purpose behind so vast a benefaction, that the amount of money to be accumulated should be so strict and that the powers of the members of the corporation to elect their successors should be strictly limited.

Yet the object of the Foundation, as stated in the bill introduced by Senator Gallinger, was "to promote the well-being and to advance the civilization of the people of the United States and its territories and possessions and of foreign lands in the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge; in the prevention and relief of suffering; and in the promotion of any or all elements of human progress."

FARMER'S BALANCE WHEEL.

The backbone of any successful farm is the system followed in crop production. About the first things the county agent looks into when he visits the farm are whether a well-established rotation is consistently followed from year to year, and whether this rotation is adapted to the type of soil, the climate and the uses to which the crops are put. Nearly every important improvement in the farm plan must follow the time of rotation. The use of fertilizers must conform to it, and the silo, the storage facilities and the animals kept to consume the forage are all influenced by it.

"What shall I grow next year?" does not stop with next year. It includes a period of three or four years, according to the length of the rotation. For thirty years discussions at farmers' meetings and institutions and at the agricultural colleges have been largely devoted to rotations. At first the question was what rotation would give the largest net return of salable produce. Later, when declining fertility became a live topic, the farmers asked what rotation would return the largest yields and at the same time maintain fertility at the lowest cost.

Our grandfathers had considerable faith in the bare fallow, which they thought gave the soil the rest it needed. Now we know that the bare fallow is simply a gap in the rotation which was necessary because of the entire absence of crops. New crops have aided in filling this gap; crops which were formerly unknown, are now grown quite generally. We have learned to use them as cover crops, as green manure, and as inter-crops put in before the previous crop is harvested. The building of the rotation nowadays is a more complex task than it once was. Every experiment station has spent much time in testing rotations, and the results of those tests are available to aid anyone in making out a rotation to suit his own conditions. Subsequent articles will emphasize the need of adapting the rotation to local soils and market conditions, since that detail is of primary importance.

The first step in systematizing any general farm is the adoption of the right rotation. Around it revolves the whole system of permanent agriculture.

Poorer than a Pauper.

Calling at a merchant's office we found him conversing with a well dressed and intelligent looking man who soon retired at which the merchant said, "Nobody loves that man." Why, because he takes no interest in anyone but himself and is constantly finding fault with others. What a poor man. With a comfortable fortune and surrounded with hundreds of human hearts, and yet no one loves him. Poorer than a pauper! A man is rich not in proportion to the money he has or the position he holds, but in proportion to the hearts which love him.

We called upon an old lady worth many thousands, with all the physical comforts which she needed, but she was unhappy and in her unhappiness, opened her heart saying, "I have no child or grandchild or relative who loves or is interested in me, only for my money. I am a poor miserable old woman." And she was right.

Soon after we met another old lady of about the same age. She seemed so happy we complimented her upon her cheerfulness, at which she said, "I ought to be for I have nine children and eighteen grandchildren, all of good character and cannot tell which loves me most."

Her daughter-in-law at once exclaimed, "We are all tumbling over each other to see who shall." A wonderful testimony to the character of the woman as well as a revelation of how rich she was. Money could not fill her heart as love filled it. She was loved because, she loved.

Wait for Her, Boys.
The girl who is unkind to her mother isn't worth a tinker's doggone. This isn't written in any part of the Bible, but it's written in the history of thousands and thousands of misfit homes. If one of you boys ever run across a girl with her face full of roses, with eyes that would dim the lustre of a Colorado sky and with a voice that would make the song of an angel seem discordant, and she says, as she comes to the door:

"I can't go for a few minutes, I've got to help mother do the dishes," don't give her up. Stick to her like a burr to a mule's tail. Just sit down on the door step and wait. If she joins you in two or three minutes, so much the better; but if you have to stay there on the door-step for a half hour or an hour, you just wait for her. If you don't somebody else will and in time you'll be sorry. For you'll realize what you have lost.

Wait for her, boy. She's worth it.

Be Humane.
In ordinary times a horse whose market value is less than seventy-five dollars is unfit for work. To sell an old or unfit horse is, in the majority of cases, to consign him to a lingering and painful death.

After long experience, we strongly and respectfully advise you not to give away a horse, except in some unusual case. It is more humane to kill him. Beware, especially, of selling or giving a horse to go on "a farm." Farmers, in general, feed their horses less grain, and take less care of them, than any other horse-owners in the world.

Indian life in the Maine woods is to be graphically exhibited at the Sportsmen's Show in Madison Square Garden which begins Saturday and will continue until Jan. 9.

There is to be a complete Indian camp of fifteen shabrigs, showing their customs and manners and modes of life. An especial feature will be the methods employed in hunting big game.

Who Makes the Fashions?

A rather remarkable economic theory was advanced by the woman speaker at the National Conference on Unemployment who alleged that "thousands of working people" are idle because of centric new styles in gowns, coats, hats and shoes.

It might be supposed that every time a woman bought a new hat or coat or dress the purchase gave employment to somebody. True, a change from velvet to cloth and from tight skirts to full ones, the storage facilities and the animals kept to consume the forage are all influenced by it.

But assuming the correctness of the theory, are women to blame for the frequent changes of fashion? Men really are the great arbiters of woman's attire. They design it and make the model costumes which it is the ambition of every dressmaker and the world over to copy and of every woman to wear. They are responsible for the capriciousness in clothes which is wrongly attributed to women, and if there is any blame in the matter they will have to bear it.

If all the guild of man-milliners could be abolished, we should have fewer bizarre and radical changes of feminine fashion. But would there then be as much work for the support of as many workers as there is?

For a Rainy Day.
The careful husband had given his wife some money to put into the family sinking fund, but she had spent it. Two or three days later she asked for more.

"Didn't I give you some last Monday?" he inquired in the well-known manner of husbands under similar circumstances.

"Yes, but I spent it."

"Spent it? I thought you had laid it away for a rainy day."

"I did, Henry," she smiled sweetly. "I bought a raincoat, an umbrella, and a pair of rubbers with it."

A Neighborhood Gathering.
The neighbors and friends, by invitation, in this vicinity, assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Tower on Christmas Eve, where a beautiful Xmas tree was provided, for each and everyone were allowed to present their friends with gifts. The tree and the room were beautifully decorated with the Christmas holly and evergreen, also lovely Christmas ornaments by the hand of Mrs. Guy L. Tower and our teacher, Annie Oberg. It was the intention of the teacher to have a tree at the school house and exercises by the scholars, but Mrs. Tower prevailed on her to combine pleasure and comfort and celebrate together at her home, where both old and young could attend. The scholars were called upon to recite their pieces and they all did fine.

Next in order was a knock at the door by one of the neighbors pretty well along in years, pretending to be an Irish tramp and dressed in the garb of an Irishman, inquiring for a friend of his, Stephen Flynn, who was present.

The tramp, who called himself Pat Murphy in his conversation with Flynn, was somewhat insulting but he beat him at every turn. Pat was then asked to sing a song to pay for his night's lodging, which he did admirably well and quite a few present did not know who this neighbor was and it caused lots of merriment. Next in order came the witty take-offs, composed and written by Mrs. Guy L. Tower, on every gentleman present, which caused lots of fun.

Miss Oberg and Mrs. Tower were at their best and entertained all in the best possible manner. Callie Briggs impersonated Santa Claus in distributing the presents from the tree, in which he did fine. All the while Mrs. C. E. Jones, the good Samaritan, was passing around a big bag of peanuts, popcorn, candy and oranges to all. Music was dispersed from the piano and violin at intervals. There were many fine presents on the tree among which was a fine gold watch presented to Gracie Tower by her father, E. C. Tower. All passed an enjoyable evening and wished many happy returns of the same.

A lot of lumbering is being done in this vicinity this winter.

Mrs. Richard Batchelder is sick with pneumonia. Calvin G. Briggs and Stephen Flynn are working in the woods, logging. You will hear more about the loggers later.

During the past five years how much of your income have you saved? Not as much as you should. Now is the time when you should take account of stock and make your plans for doing just a little more business than last year. The farmer should plan to take advantage of the present upheaval in Europe and raise crops that will sell at a premium when harvest time comes. (He should plan for increased acreage, more grain, more stock, better seed and better means of cultivation. The business man should take careful account of his affairs, ascertain his profits for the year just closed and find out how much it has cost him to do business. Then he can make intelligent preparation to do more business for the coming year and realize greater profits.

But to obtain the best results, the farmer and business man should be identified with this strong financial institution. The financial secrets of the community are locked within it. It helps the farmer, the business man, the widow and the children to conserve fortunes and invest them. In every way it exerts a beneficent influence, not only on those who frequent it, but on the community.

Each year sees the use of paying one's bills by check, become more universal. Nearly everyone is now paid by check and for the same reasons that he is paid by check, he should also pay HIS bills by check. A checking account saves time and insures correctness in money matters, and provides a faithful accounting of all moneys received and paid out, so that at the end of the year one can know whether they have merely earned their board and rent or have been able to save something.

The safe investment of surplus funds is of vital importance, to the individual or institution investing, and to the Bank upon whose advice the investment is made. This Bank has been selling bonds suitable for investment purposes, for many years. The knowledge and experience thus gained are at the disposal of its customers.

No matter what your financial problem is, whether to open a checking account, invest your idle money, buy Travelers' Checks, send money to Europe, telegraph money or obtain Money Orders, we want you to consider this a personal invitation to come into the Bank and talk over any financial matter. You affairs will be held strictly confidential and our experience and advice may prove helpful. We are confident we can help you if you will give us the opportunity.

Will you not now, at the commencement of the new year, seek the aid of this strong institution in extending your field and increasing the volume of your business?
